

How to be a great Eat at Local's Host!

Quality Standard Guidelines

Direct Contact with local culture and places is something that is highly valued by nowadays tourists. Passion, dedication and total commitment to each event is paramount to the success and maximum satisfaction of each event and your guests.

Eat at Local's team has prepared some tips that will help you to maximize your performance as a Host. Ask your guests to write you a review of their experience. Needless to say, that great reviews will generate more guests. You will also get a better gist of your own performance and evaluate what you will need to improve on next time. Always keep in mind your main goal: your guest's satisfaction.

Here are the key ingredients that we consider to be essential for an excellency recipe for an Eat at Local's host:

Passion and knowledgeable: We expect that you as a host, to have ability to welcome guests from different cultures and background in a real familiar environment. That you are passionate about Portuguese gastronomy and enthusiastic about sharing our cultural richness.

Communication: You should always be kind and willing to answer to your guests' questions and doubts.

Friendship: Create intimate atmospheres so that each guest feels a special connection with everyone present at the event.

Entertainment: Offer your guests the chance to prepare the meal with you, and make sure that they leave your home and take with them a little bit of our culture to share with family and friends.

Commitment: It's your entire responsibility to respect each detail of your advert so that guests are not disappointed. We always recommend that you keep your availability updated to avoid cancellations.

Respect: Guarantee that your guests feel welcome and integrated into the group. Consider a strong chance of having guest from different cultures in your home.

Satisfaction: Last but not least, make sure your guests leave your home happy! It is important that you define a well-balanced price taking into consideration the time, quality and exclusivity of your event.
